111 Persons Killed In African Plane Crash

YAOUNDE, Cameroon (AP) — Rescue parties reached the charred wreckage of a chartered British airliner in a swamp near Douala today and found all 111 persons aboard dead.

It was the worst civilian crash in history involving a single plane. Only one other single plane, a U. S. Air Force Globemaster in Japan in 1953, has taken a bigger toll. Two collisions of planes in the United States took 134 and 128 lives, respectively.

Witnesses said the four-engine DC7C seemed to make a normal takeoff for Europe in a light rain Sunday night, then suddenly plummeted into a swamp less than two miles from the airport at Douala, largest city in the West African republic of Cameroon.

The plane exploded on impact and burned fiercely.

The plane carried 101 passengers—among them three children—en route from South Africa, Rhodesia and Mozambique to Europe. It had a crew of 10, including three hostesses.

No Americans Aboard

The passengers included 42 Britons, many of them living in Rhodesia, 40 South Africans, and a sprinkling of Dutch, Germans, Danes, Australians, Irish and Italian. The nationality of three passengers was not known, but the airline said it knew of no Americans aboard.

Rescue efforts during the night were hampered by darkness and the swampy terrain.

The worst previous crash in Africa was that of an Air France Super Constellation in which 79 were killed in the Sahara on May 10, 1961.

The propeller-driven airliner crashed after leaving the Portuguese colony of Mozambique. Its destination was Luxembourg but most of the passengers were bound for Britain. It had been chartered by another British outfit, Trans-African Air Coach Ltd.

Col. Glenn Reports Back To Canaveral

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. heads back to Cape Canaveral, Fla., today to resume work on the Mercury man in space project after a week of parades, banquets and awards. His boss says the space hero has no plans to enter politics.

The first American to orbit the earth spent a quiet Sunday with his family at their nearby Arlington, Va., home after attending services at the Little Falls Presbyterian church.

Several hundred people were waiting on the church lawn when the Glens left. He smiled and waved, then led his family quickly to their car.

The size of the crowd contrasted sharply with the thousands who cheered the smiling astronaut and his family in parades in Washington, New York and his hometown of New Concord, Ohio. The week also included appearances before a joint meeting of Congress and two congressional committees and a visit to the United Nations.

Several politicians, impressed by Glenn's performance during the week, remarked that he showed tremendous vote-getting appeal.

The possibility of a political future for Glenn drew comment from James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration which controls Project Mercury.

"He (Glenn) tells me that he is devoted to the space program and wants to stay with it just as long as he can be useful in it," Webb said.

Webb, appearing on a taped television program with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., noted that Lt. Col. Glenn is on loan to NASA from the Marine Corps and probably will want to return to the corps eventually.

GRASS FIRES HALTED

Firemen were called to extinguish two grass fires over the weekend. One occurred at 3:50 p.m. Saturday on the Benton Rd., between Rt. 14 and the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, and the other was at 3:51 p.m. Sunday on W. Perry St. Ext.

Must Be Part of Test-Ban Treaty

West Still Insists On Inspection Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chief U.S. disarmament negotiator says the West will insist that any nuclear test-ban treaty with the Soviet Union include a system of cross-inspection to guard against secret test preparations.

William C. Foster, who will head the U.S. team at the Geneva disarmament conference scheduled to begin March 14, said the West would not take Soviet Premier Khrushchev's word that the U.S.S.R. would not test again.

"A number of inspectors" would have to be stationed in the Soviet Union, Foster said. "Early in the game we would want American inspectors, as I presume they would want Soviet inspectors."

The alternative to a treaty, he said, would be "a spiraling arms race which can only have one ultimate end, which is the destruction of the world."

Foster, who heads the new Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, spoke on a television interview—Meet the Press—NBC. He discounted published reports that the West would offer looser controls than those proposed last year.

If anything, he said, "it would be desirable in the national interest to perhaps increase rather than decrease the amount of inspection."

Foster made clear that the West would continue to oppose the system of self-inspection urged by the Soviet Union. However, he said the West was ready to discuss some adjustment in international or bilateral inspections.

As Foster spoke, reports were circulating in London that the West was believed ready to offer the Soviet Union a test-ban agreement with looser controls than those in the treaty proposed by the West last year.

Because many tests could be detected from outside the Soviet Union, the Sunday Times said, "the West may be prepared to consider fewer control posts in Soviet and Western territory, and to place greater emphasis on ver-

'They Walked With Christ'

The News has obtained for its readers a dramatic new word-and-picture series designed for the Lenten season.

Titled "They Walked With Christ," the series starts Wednesday—Ash Wednesday.

Outstanding newspaper artist Sam Patrick and religion authority Omar Garrison have combined their notable talents to bring you memorable portraits and highlights in the lives of the most important people to come into direct contact with Christ during His lifetime.

Mary the Mother (pictured above) will be one of the first of 40 people you'll meet in the inspiring Lenten feature.

You'll find true inspiration in the beautiful crayon and pen-and-ink portraits and accompanying text.

Watch for "They Walked With Christ" ... starting in The Salem News Wednesday.

Inquiry Board Clears Powers In U2 Downing

Pilot Says Rapid Descent Prevented Plane's Destruction

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special board of inquiry has found that U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers generally complied with orders on his ill-fated flight over the Soviet Union, informed sources said today.

In the aftermath of extensive interrogation Powers is likely to be revealed as a man who met unexplained disaster and coped with it reasonably well. The 32-year-old pilot reportedly has not been able to shed much light on how his plane was forced down deep inside the U.S.S.R. May 1, 1960.

Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency was scheduled to present his evaluation of the board's report today to a special Senate watchdog group.

Powers, who had been sentenced to prison on spying charges, was released by the Soviet Union last month in exchange for Soviet master spy Rudolf I. Abel.

Since then, Powers has been

Local Science Pupils Win Top Awards

Two Salem Junior High School students received "outstanding" awards at the Tri-State Science Fair Saturday in Steubenville.

Jim Shasteen, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shasteen of 1440 Shady Lane, was recipient of a $5 award for his exhibit which explained the production of aluminum products and their use in the home.

Jay Oana, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Oana of the Depot Road, received a similar award for his project, "The Moon, a Puzzle in the Sky."

Local students entered 33 of the 214 exhibits in the division. It was the first time the Salem pupils had participated in the science fair.

The students were accompanied by their teacher, Walter Newton.

Local students who received awards of merit were Diana Schaeffer, Carl Spencer, Harry Stoffer, Toni Sheen, Karen Leaf, Charlotte Berg, Kitty Purrington, and Gary Dean.

The local science fair will be held at the Junior High School Friday and Saturday.

Other area winners at the fair were: Richard Pine of Columbiana RD 1 and Richard Tyson of Columbiana, ninth grade division, James Kelm of W. Lincoln Way, Lisbon, seventh grade division.

DIE IN TRAGIC CRASH. Mrs. Alice Clewell of near Guilford Lake and three of her children, Alice Rebecca, 14, Jennifer, 12, and Lucian, 11, were killed instantly when their car was struck by a Pennsylvania freight train at the Lisbon Rd. (Route 45) crossing at the south edge of Salem Sunday at 10:55 a. m. as they were en route to church here. In photo at top, taken by News Photographer Carl Nandras, State Patrolman Phil Werner completes his accident report alongside the demolished car that was driven by Mrs. Clewell. Skid marks indicated she saw the train too late to stop, the Patrol said.

War Fever Whipped-Up In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — War fever is mounting again in Indonesia over West New Guinea.

Military authorities are directing the exercises and warning everyone to be prepared in the event of raids by Dutch bombers from the disputed territory claimed by Indonesia.

Alerts are sounded with increasing frequency, bringing everything to a standstill.

Diplomatic observers in Jakarta predict that when the Moslem fast month of Ramadan ends March 8, the Indonesian government may again start talking tough over the West New Guinea dispute.

President Sukarno conferred Sunday with U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones. The United States has been energetically trying to bring a peaceful settlement between Indonesia and the Dutch as a friend of both countries.

In the Hague, the Netherlands government was reported divided on whether to send more troops to West New Guinea to protect 20,000 Dutch residents there. Some Cabinet members were reported fearful such a move might jeopardize peace negotiations.

135 Explosions Rock Algiers

SAO Terrorists Resume Bombings

ALGIERS (AP) — A record-breaking wave of 135 plastic bomb explosions rocked Algiers for 90 minutes before dawn today in a new demonstration of strength by the European Secret Army Organization.

Twelve persons were injured, but no deaths were reported from the thundering blasts.

Police headquarters said 13 men were arrested either fleeing the scenes of the blasts or preparing to set off new charges.

They formed three of what police estimated were a score of teams that carried out the attacks.

Most of the blasts were aimed against Moslem stores or parked automobiles belonging to Moslems. Police said no public buildings were damaged.

Thousands of Europeans in night clothes crowded to their windows and onto balconies, listening to the blasts and counting them. Cheers went up in the Bab-el-Oued section with every explosion.

"It was a real festival," one European woman said beaming.

European settlers close to the right-wing underground said the operation was part of a Secret Army plan to keep the Moslems in check.

The explosions ended at daybreak with the same suddenness they began in an expertly timed, massive show of strength by the European terrorists.

By noon life in Algiers appeared normal again except for tense troops patrolling the city.

The wave of plastic explosions came on the heels of a government communique which said the authorities were scoring important progress in their fight against the Secret Army.

The first blasts went off at 4:45 a.m. in the heart of the capital.

Mrs. Clewell, Two Daughters, Son Are Victims

Engine Drags Auto Nearly Mile; Mass Funeral Wednesday

A Guilford Lake area mother and three of her children on their way to church here Sunday morning were killed when their car was smashed by a fast Pennsylvania Railroad freight train at the Rt. 45 (Lisbon Rd.) crossing, just south of the Salem corporation line.

Dead are Mrs. Alice Clewell, 46, her two daughters, Alice Rebecca, 14, and Jennifer Louise, 12, and a son Lucian Garth, 11.

The tragedy occurred at 10:55 a. m. The four victims were driving to the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour where Mrs. Clewell taught Sunday School and Alice helped in the nursery class. Classes were to start at 11 a. m.

The 51-car freight train, traveling at an estimated 50 miles per hour, was passing through Salem with a load of piggyback truck units being transported from Chicago to Kearney, N.Y.

The engineer, Matthew J. Huffman, 61, of Crestline, sounded the train whistle and the Rt. 45 crossing lights were flashing as the east-bound freight roared through town.

The engineer said he saw the late model Corvair traveling north toward the crossing, was not going to get stopped so he slammed on the air brakes. As the car came onto the crossing, the first of five diesel engines pulling the train crashed into the side of the auto with tremendous force. The car was pushed back nearly a mile and then overturned. The engine and car were then dragged by the train for some distance.

Two Salem Girls Injured In Accident

Two RD 2, Salem, girls were hurt when the car in which they were riding went out of control on a curve on the Cider Mill Rd., southwest of Salem, and crashed into the ditch at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Injured were:

Judy Menning, 19, lacerated left leg.

Ruth Kekel, 18, lacerations of the right ankle, contusion of the right arm and a bruised right hip.

Neither of the girls was hospitalized.

Driver of the car, Frederick K. Hochwarth, 18, of Canton, was not hurt.

According to the Highway Patrol, Hochwarth was driving south-east on the Cider Mill Rd., about two-tenths of a mile northwest of Rt. 9, when he lost control on a left curve and ran off the right side of the road. He was cited for reckless operation.

4 Other Accidents

No one was injured in four other highway accidents in the area over the weekend.

George Ruscoe, 46, of RD 1, East Palestine, was cited for failing to yield the right of way following a two-car mishap on Rt. 14, about seven miles east of Columbiana, at 11:40 a.m. Saturday.

The Patrol said Ruscoe pulled out of a tavern parking lot into the path of a car operated by Blair E. Growth, 36, of Beaver Falls, Pa., causing the collision.

A deer was killed when it ran onto Rt. 7, about three and one-half miles south of Rogers, at 3:45 p.m. Saturday and was struck by a car operated by Minnie E. Hamilton, 46, of East Liv-

TRAIN DERAILED

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Repair crews have cleared the tracks that were blocked for more than two hours Sunday by the derailment of a 76-car New York Central freight train. Five cars were wrecked, and one knocked down a Baltimore & Ohio car on a transfer track. No one was injured.

'HI THERE!' Friends of high school and college days get a wave from John Glenn and wife Annie as parade moves along Montgomery Boulevard in New Concord, Ohio, Saturday. Bands from local schools set the beat for the caravan of convertibles which carried members of the Glenn family in the astronaut's home town.

Leetonia Historical Group To Assemble Important Data

LEETONIA — The Leetonia Historical Society will hold its monthly meeting at the Community Public Library Wednesday afternoon at 2.

The Society has been reorganized for the purpose of collecting and preserving historical data pertaining to the settlement and development of the local area, including Salem Township. Eventually, it is planned to assemble this material in a booklet commemorating the centennial of Leetonia and its environs, and which will be of special interest not only to its present residents but also to the descendants of its former residents and early settlers.

Membership in the Society is open to all who may have something to contribute to the project or may be interested.

BERNARD G. FREEMAN, Main st. jeweler, has been appointed deputy registrar for the sale of automobile licenses for 1962. In addition to the passenger car plates, Mr. Freeman is also authorized to issue passenger car transfers, plates for trailers up to 1050 pounds, driver licenses, temporary driving permits and chauffeur's licenses.

MISS NORMA JEAN SHADE, RD 1, Leetonia, left for New York last week to join 49 other 4-H young people bound for Peace Corps orientation in Puerto Rico. The 19-year old Miss Shade is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Shade and a 1960 graduate of Leetonia High School.

The group left New York for four weeks of basic training prior to taking on assignments of assisting extension agents with 4-C clubs in Brazil. The clubs in Brazil are the equivalent of our 4-H clubs.

Miss Shade spent a week at home after completing six weeks of training at the National 4-H headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Next 20 Years To See Many Changes In House Designs

You can do completely without a crystal ball in predicting that there will be quite a few changes in home design and construction in the next 20 or 25 years.

But what kind of changes?

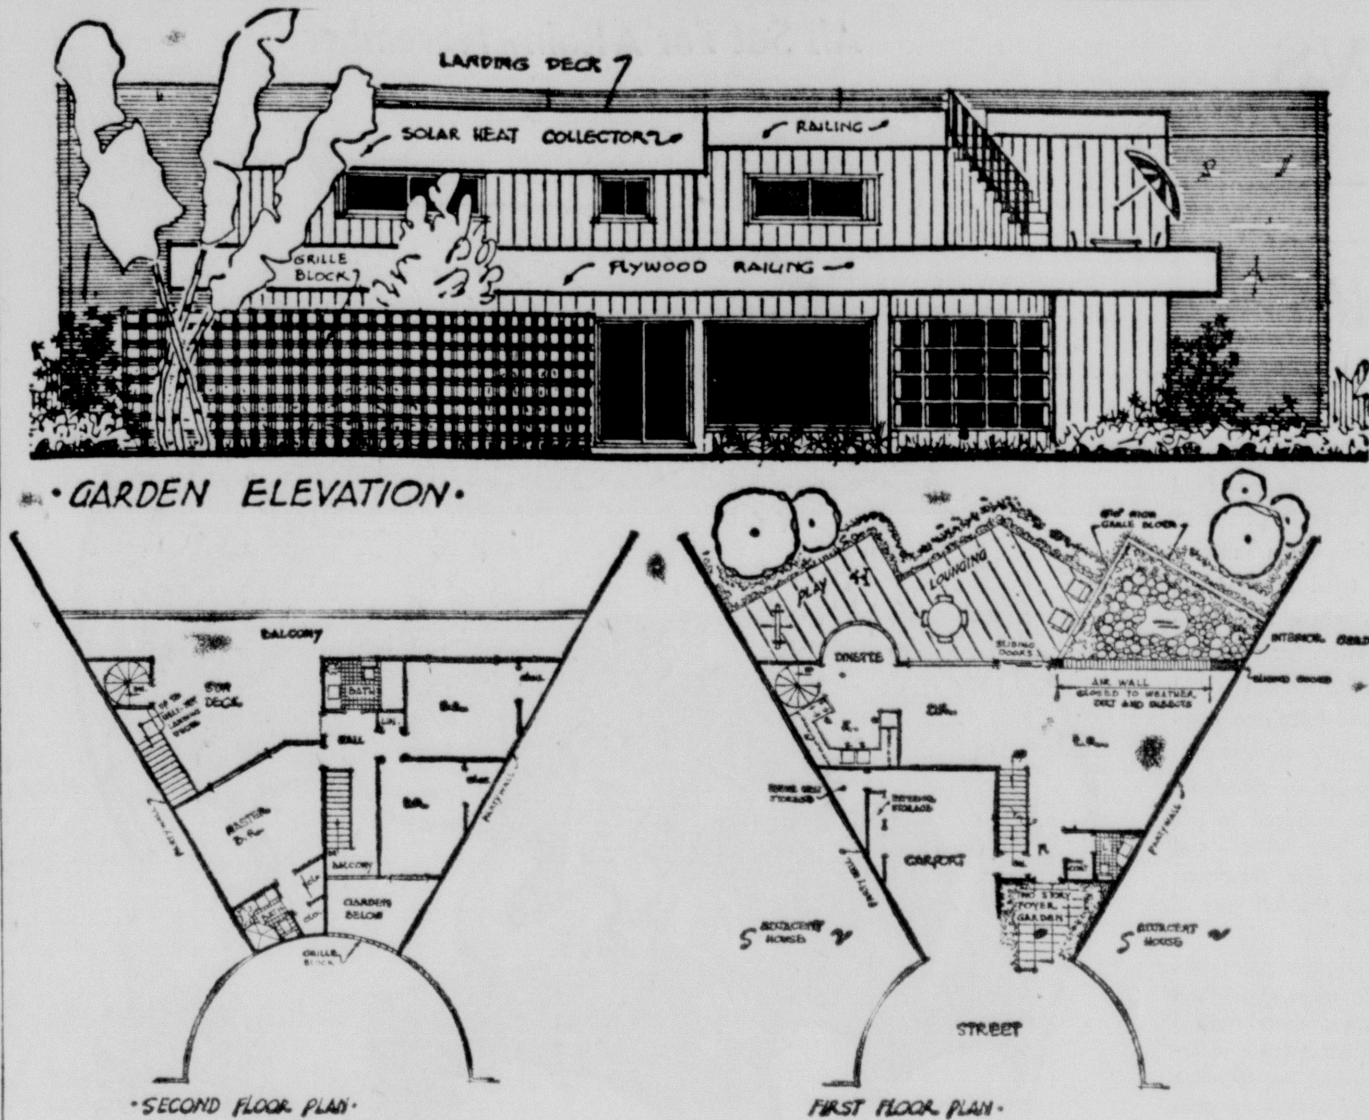

We asked the noted architect, Herman H. York, to give us some idea of what the home of the future might be like. He started by explaining that there are a number of probable influencing factors which would affect the design of houses along about 1982.

"Some of these factors," said York, "will be the high cost of land, the high cost of utilities, the desirability of privacy, less use of the automobile and more of the helicopter, the development of solar heat, a wider acceptance of open planning, more use of the 'air wall' and continued recognition of the home as a status symbol."

The high cost of land and utilities would be taken care of by the use of a cluster housing plan in which the dwelling unit would be part of a group of houses with a common walk and by the use of shorter street frontages. Large rear yard gardens and sun decks overlooking the garden would solve the privacy problem. There would be an aircraft landing area on the roof, readily accessible to the rooms below.

Solar heat collection devices would be incorporated into the architectural design. The floor plan layout would open the main rooms on the main floor level and upstairs to the garden and sun deck area. Air walls would be used between the living rooms and gardens. And luxury would be apparent at the front entry by long vistas from the front foyer through the house to the rear garden area.

York said some of the conveniences used today would still be popular 20 or 25 years from now. But there would be changes in water supply and sewage disposal systems. And costs of the house would be kept reasonable because the parts would be put together in far fewer pieces, reducing the labor required at the site.

HOUSE OF THE FUTURE. This is one version of how houses may look 20 or 25 years from now. Note the landing deck for a heli-jet, the use of solar heat and an air wall separating the living room from an interior garden. It looks like a dream house now, but could be an average home in the future. While detailed plans for this "House of the Future" are not yet available, further information about it can be obtained from the architect, Herman H. York, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 32, N. Y.

Venting Dryer Will Keep Excess Moisture Out of Air

Venting a clothes dryer is a very important part of its installation. Lack of venting will cause heat and moisture to be discharged into the air.

The amount of moisture might be enough to cause paint to peel, to cause wallpaper to become loose and to create mildew and rust.

Not venting is like tossing a bucket of water on the floor every time you use the dryer.

To Outside

Venting must be done to the outside. And it must be done by the shortest possible route with the least number of turns.

The job is done with either rigid or flexible ducts. You can use three or four-inch smoke pipe or flexible ducting made especially for the purpose.

Installation has been made simple by the marketing of special kits that contain all the necessary pipe, hood and other parts.

Right in Back

The duct is installed right on the back of the dryer. An opening is there with a ridge around it over which the duct fits.

Pipe is simply fitted over the opening. Flexible ducting is held in place with large clamps.

The vent hood is for the other end, outside the house. The hood contains an automatic damper—a swinging metal plate—that opens when the dryer is in use, but remains closed the rest of the time keeping out cold air and insects.

Through Wall

If you go through the wall, measure the opening you are to make carefully. Drill a hole and use this as a starting point for a keyhole saw. After the vent hood is inserted from outside, call around it.

If you go through a foundation wall—as you would in the basement—use a masonry bit and an electric drill or a hammer and hammer to clear away the concrete. Fill in around the duct with concrete.

Through Window

But the simplest installation of all is through a basement window. Simply remove one pane of glass completely and replace with a special aluminum insert that is available for this purpose.

The metal plate comes with a hole cut in the center to take the duct and hood.

Fasten the metal plate with glazier's points and putty, the same as the original glass was installed.

Wood Plate

Lacking the metal plate, use a sheet of 1/2-in. exterior grade plywood. Measure to size and cut to fit. Cut a hole in the middle the size of the duct you are using.

Secure this to the window frame with quarter round molding. Wrap insulation around the duct where it passes through the plywood.

In the case of window installations, secure the window so that it does not fall down or is opened by anyone accidentally.

Insulation Lowers Cost of Comfort In All Seasons

Proper insulation makes it possible to save considerably in the costs of both heating and air conditioning equipment and their annual operation.

Calculations for all season comfort and economy were made in three temperature zones of the U.S.—Minneapolis, Minn., Indianapolis, Ind., and Dallas, Texas.

It was discovered that when a thickness of 6 inches of mineral wool was installed in the ceiling, at least 3 inches in walls, and 2 inches around the edges of the slab, that equipment costs were $350 less in Dallas, $200 less in Indianapolis, and $200 in Minneapolis than they would have been if minimum insulation thicknesses had been used.

Year-around costs of heating and cooling were: Dallas, $81 per year, Indianapolis, $77, and Minneapolis, $95.

During the last five years in Ohio, 213 persons have been killed and more than 7,000 injured while operating or riding on farm tractors.

Smart Home Buyer Asks Questions

The smart home buyer, one architect recently remarked, asks a lot of questions when he is buying a home. He is not just satisfied with glib answers, but wants facts.

What questions to ask? The architect suggested that a buyer should find out how sturdily and dependably his prospective home was built by finding out if it has a good solid wood frame, if it has wood floor joists, good long-lasting wood rafters to hold up the roof, wood studs, plates, lintels and headers to make up the wall framework.

Also, the architect suggested, he will want to find out what kind of lumber was used. Framing lumber of Douglas fir or west coast hemlock, two of the most widely used species, have high acceptability, great strength, and long life.

Equally as important as the framing elements of a home, the architect pointed out, are interior and exterior finish. Many people have their own preferences, he said, but the great majority of home buyers want a home with wood siding, preferably western red cedar or Douglas fir or a similar wood which withstands the elements for generations.

For interior trim and paneling, many softwoods are liked because of their soft, honey-hued tones. The champagne color of west coast hemlock, the soft autumn tones of western red cedar and the ruddy, golden tones of Douglas fir are prized by architects and homeowners for wall panels and woodwork because they're easily worked into any decorative scheme.

The state of Texas has 254 counties ranging in size from Brewster (6,208 square miles) to Rockwall (147 square miles).

New on the Market

THE PRODUCT—A rust-inhibiting enamel which comes in 15 colors and is designed for use on metal surfaces.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM—That this enamel primes itself and doubles as a topcoat, thus enabling it to be used directly on rusted surfaces. Corrosive conditions exist; that it is especially good for weather-beaten grillwork, gutters, downspouts, trellises and toys; and that it can be used equally well with a brush or as a spray.

THE PRODUCT—An adjustable countersink for making enlargements into which screws and bolts can be sunk beneath the surface of wood or other stock.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM—That this is the first countersink that adjusts to the exact desired depth with an automatic stop; that it will fit any electric drill or drill press; and that its special design eliminates chatter and assures round, clean cuts.

THE PRODUCT—A floor tile in which hundreds of vinyl chips are separately suspended in translucent vinyl in each tile.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM—That this method of production gives the tile an unusual marblechip design; that the tile has no composition backing, no printed surface and no lamination of any sort; and that the tile has no composition back-suspended wood or concrete floors with one special type of adhesive.

Permit Issued For New Bowling Alley

A new six-lane bowling alley will be constructed soon on S. Ellsworth Ave.

John E. Hendron this week obtained a building permit from the city to erect the bowling alley next to the tavern he owns at 441 S. Ellsworth Ave.

Estimated cost of the building is $15,000. George Begalla of Salem is the contractor.

Two other building permits were issued this week by Zoning Officer F. S. Barkhoff, Jr.

One was obtained by R. Bruce Hack to make improvements estimated at $2,500 to a garage owned by Joseph Fester at 364 E. 5th St.

The other permit was issued to Phil Canill of RD 1, Salem, to replace trusses in the roof at the R. S. McCulloch Co. store, 567

Never Cut a Baby In Half

The Federal Communications Commission has called for sanity among the hysterics of who should and shouldn't own a communications satellite corporation.

The corporation should be owned, says the FCC in a public hearing, solely by people who have an interest in it—the common carrier communications companies.

This disagrees with President Kennedy's cut-the-baby-in-half proposal for creating a private corporation under a government license forbidding it to be dominated by the only people who, by rights, should have anything to say about it—the communications companies.

The President's proposal was political—a politician's compromise between the government ownership faction in his administration and in Congress and the private enterprise principle that has served the Kennedy family so well. Mr. Kennedy probably would like to go whole hog on private enterprise in this and all other decisions where government ownership buffs crowd him. But he is first of all a politician and only secondarily the scion of a family that owes more than most to private enterprise.

The mischief in the presidential proposal for splitting the difference is the possibility of compromising the principle that business belongs to private enterprise, not to politicians. When they moved into the new field of atomic energy, a war was in progress; atomic energy is still primarily a military concern. But they have tried tirelessly to wriggle into other places where they have no right to be—electric power, for example.

A communications satellite system would be a logical development of telephone communication. The government's only excuse for nibbling into it would be its monopoly of the size of the rockets required to put communications satellites into orbit—and even in that single respect Bell Telephone already has offered to pay the full cost of the rockets for doing the job.

Thanks to the FCC, Congress now has something more sensible to argue about than a choice between a compromise proposal half state capitalism and half private enterprise and an all-out proposal to socialize satellite communications by setting up public ownership at the outset. It can talk about private enterprise too. It might even end up talking about turning over the job to the only company that stands ready to accept

Something New In Production

The automobile industry is buzzing with the announcement that Ford finally has finished its two-year preparation for competing directly with the German-made Volkswagen in the American market.

It will market a car of comparable size and price and with a comparable engineering "feature"—a front-engine drive, instead of a rear-engine drive.

The car will be on the market in this country by midsummer at the earliest, autumn at the latest. Though it is a gamble, the auto industry is looking at it as one of the most exciting gambles in a long time because it represents a response by American enterprise to the still-increasing challenge of the oddly styled German compact that has led the parade of foreign challengers to the supremacy of U.S.-made cars.

Yet the most significant thing about the response is a detail that may be missed by those who give the story only superficial attention.

Ford will build many major parts for its new car in Germany and ship them to the United States for assembly. Among these will be the engine and transmission.

When it is pointed out by the United Auto Workers and other critics that this will take work away from U.S. labor, Ford spokesmen say that just the opposite is true, because the only way it can give jobs to workers who assemble the cars in this country is to have some of the more expensive components manufactured abroad.

Otherwise, say the spokesmen, the idea wouldn't be feasible; there could be no car at all. The Ford Co. would have to admit its inability to compete directly with Volkswagen in the U.S. market. It would have to abandon the field to a competitor that makes all its components abroad and assembles them there.

As things stand now, with its car still under wraps, Ford's idea for making it feasible is more interesting than the idea of the car itself. Is this the way the United States will lick the problem of high costs of production—by farming out the costliest production?

Taxes Aid Progress

Threatened again by serious financial difficulties, the City Council at East Liverpool has passed an emergency income tax of eight-tenths of one per cent. It marks the fourth time in as many years that the Pottery City has enacted a wage tax in the face of stubborn opposition from a segment of the citizenry which doesn't seem to care whether their community keeps pace with advancements made by other Ohio cities.

Thank goodness that here in Salem we have the dedicated, optimistic, civic-minded brand of residents who want our city to progress and are glad to contribute to its maintenance and future planning through an income tax now in its second year of operation.

It is not our intention to project ourselves into the affairs of another city but since East Liverpool, like Salem, is one of Columbiana County's major communities, we feel that all people of the county have a certain degree of responsibility to each other and that, collectively, we can work to attain new, important goals. We don't think that even the East Liverpool tax opponents would want to hamper their own city's progress, let alone the advancement of the district as a whole. After all, they, too, would benefit.

Reasonable taxes are as necessary today as they were in the days of Augustus Caesar.

Once Over

If there are creatures on Mars with knowledge of U.S. astronaut flights, they may be thinking about a trip toward earth. Interview with an imaginary Martian:

"Yes, if so-called 'people' are penetrating the heavens, I think we should follow suit and make trips to observe their planet and its conditions," he said.

"From all signs obtainable such journeys would be terrifying, calling for the greatest coverage. All our instruments bring messages about cold wars, hot wars, riots, strikes, general disorders and frightful behavior for supposedly intelligent inhabitants. If we send out spacemen they will obviously be exposed, to horrifying dangers."

The Martian indicated first big task for a traveler from Mars would be to get through the speeches, rebuttals, threats, etc. "But what terrifies us most is penetrating Earth's Ailment and Physical Deficiency Belt," he declared.

"Our scientists have been catching all those commercials and it will take huge courage to get through Earth's Sick-o-sphere."

"Just what do you mean?" we asked. "Everything we hear on the planet Mars from Earth seems to mention headaches, arthritic pains, irregularity, tooth care, vitamin shortages and something called bad breath" was the reply.

"I presume an explorer from Mars would have to penetrate layer after layer of these horrors. From all we hear about them they must be extra terrifying. Earth seems to talk of little else." (The Martian paused to take a fresh message from Earth.) "Our stations just got something about major problem of trapped food particles, the last quarter inch, and building the body 12 ways," he explained. "Everything indicates a most peculiar civilization."

"I am advised," he continued "by our Earth Scouting Commission that the Earth's dirt area will challenge our courage." We asked what he meant. "All those messages we get constantly emphasizing soaps, detergents, antiseptics, filtered tops and the need to brush from left to right," he concluded. There must have been moments in John Glenn's ticker tape parade when he felt, as never before, deep concern about being rescued.

Millions of TV watchers were more thrilled by Carry Back than by the winner. If they had seen it in a Hollywood movie they would not have believed it.

Why the track telecasters made so little of it baffles us, as does fact that a place near the winner's circle in horse racing is never given thoroughbred whose bulldog courage and miracle performance featured the race.

Some folks hate to go to a Broadway drama just now because, after the lenn exploit from Canaveral, the heroes of theater seem trivial.

Grand Central Station in New York, known to millions all over world, is to have escalators, replacing famed marble staircases. As Will Rogers might have said, "We knew they would finish the station in time."

"Bourgeois Blues," college meetings and co-existence charades—take your pick. The Communist party, U.S.A., which chants that it is in chains, is living a lusty gay life across the land. Though it awaits trial in a federal court on 12 charges of defying our laws, it has never been luster nor louder, never more active since Stalin got hung on his personality cult. The only tears wept on the left are in the eyes of sentimentalists who believe a party and not a plot soon will stand trial for not registering with the government as a foreign agent.

Nowhere else would it happen. Nowhere else could a party, which has been branded by a government, run rallies drawing 12,000, and obtain free of any capitalist charge hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of radio and TV broadcast time.

We will survive all this despite the ridiculous—sometimes called the radical—right and the extremist—sometimes called the radical—left.

We will survive because there is a militant middle.

NO WEIRDNESS on either extreme will deprive us, the militant middle, of the civil right to say there is a live and virile Soviet-controlled Communist movement in this country.

There is despite the fact that the Welch society says there is. There is despite the fact that the Communists and their fellow travelers say there isn't.

For months now I have logged the travels of the Communist party leaders—the Gus Halls and Ben Daveses and others who no longer bear any titles but who refer to themselves merely as spokesmen for the Communist party.

I have noted down their travels from Bowdoin College in Maine to universities in Washington, Oregon and California. I have counted almost 1,000 meetings, all the way from New York to the West Coast via Chicago and Detroit. I have catalogued their literature.

Somewhere this "non-existent" Communist party has raised almost a quarter of a million dollars for travel, hotels, printing, lawyers, briefs and appeals documents.

From where did this money come? Obviously from abroad and from some "businessmen" who love their trade with the Soviet bloc and from agents who have had it stashed away for years.

All is tightly controlled from some secret central one-man headquarters. It directs a very smoothly functioning propaganda operation.

WHOMEVER the Soviet representative may be, he has matters well in hand I gather from a long document recently issued secretly by the party. It is as authentic as cheese on apple pie. Rising above the line of duty, I read the 10,000 words.

It revealed that immediately after the Supreme Court ruled that the party must register as a foreign agent, one inner party group wanted to dissolve the party.

Their plan then was to concentrate on gaining power only through unions. This would have meant abandoning the party, its machinery, its hootenannies, its co-existence propaganda.

And then—shades of the days the party had its outdoor cafeteria on Union Square—the would-be dissolvers were expelled on charges of "renegacy." They were charged with having a "liquidatory position."

Why? Because the Soviet-controlled party already has power in four strategic unions—and influences another which is a gigantic organization. That, for the while, is enough.

IT'S THE CO-EXISTENCE propaganda machinery which is important; the chance to operate as fronts for Cuba; the obvious asset of martyrdom. So the left wing deviationists were called Trotskyites and heaved out. The party then was ordered to burn its files, run smaller meetings, in secret and unloose a propaganda barrage.

This it did. And dogs. While it hides its real officers and assets it runs big open meetings and denounces mayors and governors.

What everybody appears to forget is that the Communist party of the U.S.A. still is a legal unit. What the law says simply is that it must register. And because it and its offices are defiant, it has become Martyrs, Inc. And not since the '30s has it had it so good.

Government Must Find Business Cures

Overlooking the obvious is a common error in government. Billions, for example, are being added to government expense.

The national debt isn't being paid off at all. It's growing bigger and bigger. Proposals are being made regularly by the Kennedy administration to give a way federal funds through various kinds of benevolence called "welfare." Little thought seems to be given to the obvious question—where is the money coming from to pay the bills and keep America solvent?

Scant attention has been paid here to the true condition of the national economy. Slight changes downward in the percentage of unemployment are emphasized even as hazy predictions are made about the growth of national output.

The basic problem, however, is one of confidence—how to convince American businessmen that they can go ahead and invest money in America's future without risking large losses. The talk now, however, is of a slowdown in recovery. The AFL-CIO openly speaks of a Kennedy recession.

President Kennedy is a busy man. He has too many things to do. He is occupied with summit conferences, nuclear tests, orbital flights, projects to the moon, peace corps activities, troubles in Laos and Vietnam, as well as continuous conversations with our own allies. Sometimes it seems as if there ought to be two presidents of the United States—one to concentrate on foreign affairs and the other to concentrate on domestic affairs. A well-organized Cabinet is an alternative that seems to have been overlooked.

While businessmen don't like to talk about it openly, they worry about the future as they haven't worried about it since the depression days of the 1930s. They are asked to speed up their operations—to buy new plant and equipment so as to become more efficient. They face "featherbedding" and union restrictions.

They are confronted with demands for a shorter and shorter work week at the same total pay. The prospect of extortion through strikes or threats of strikes is constantly before industries, large and small.

As for investment, businessmen ask themselves whether interest rates are ever going to come down and whether these may even skyrocket upward in the next few years. They are told that the international balance of payments is the cause of the trouble. Yet exports are high.

They read that the Kennedy administration intends to penalize

This and That

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The flu is nothing to laugh at, but smiling can help you get well faster. Patients with a cheerful attitude and high morale recuperate more quickly than those who are sad and depressed.

If you looked at the earth through a telescope on the moon, it is said, the only man-made thing visible would be the great wall of ancient China—or maybe a few Sunday traffic jams.

One reason for the kimono: Japanese women traditionally dislike showing their knees, which they consider ungraceful. They prefer men to look at their faces, not their legs.

Early attempts to mechanize agriculture were pretty cumbersome. The first power-driven plow, built in 1859, weighed eight tons, cost $10,000, and required a crew of four farmers. But the mule quit hee-hawing when the tractor was invented.

How they got started: Boris Karloff was a farmhand in Canada, Charlton Heston, a choir boy. Ethel Merman, a stenographer.

Our quotable notables: "Marriage resembles a pair of shears, so joined that they cannot be separated; often moving in opposite directions, yet always punishing anyone who comes between them."—Sydney Smith.

Another price of fat: 82 per cent of diabetics are overweight.

Invisible slaves: Scientists are trying to harness the energy of bacteria. They hope someday to use these tiny one-celled animals to make electrical power from garbage, and to operate submarines more cheaply than by nuclear energy.

Three centuries ago hats were commonly worn in the house—because of lack of proper heating. Samuel Pepys wrote in his famous diary: "September, 1664, got a severe cold because I took off my hat at dinner."

American companies that have built plants abroad to compete with Europeans. Yet Europeans are encouraged by tariff reductions to come here to compete with American companies. Business is told by our government to risk its money in underdeveloped countries and, in effect, to abandon or disrupt profitable operations in Europe.

INSIDE AMERICA, the case that business has against the administration is even more serious. Depreciation allowances have been a part of the tax structure for decades past. The rates are out of date. The administration has attempted to throw a bone to business by advocating an 8 per cent credit on new capital investments in certain industries. But this is trifling and, because it is limited in scope, it doesn't touch the fundamental ailment—the handicap of outworn depreciation rates as a whole.

Temporary stimulants are not a cure. A special investment credit, such as is being proposed, which may be granted one year can be withdrawn the next. There is no feeling of permanence about it, such as would follow a comprehensive revision of depreciation rates.

The administration vaguely promises something like this, but doesn't seem to get it going. Here, too, there is nothing on which businessmen can make plans for even five years ahead.

There are plenty of people who have urged the administration to give more thought to the fundamental ills of the national economy and to be less concerned with temporary measures and gimmicks.

PRACTICALLY nothing, for example, has been done to encourage the creation of jobs for the millions of youngsters coming out of school every year.

Uncertainty is the opposite of confidence. Uncertainty permeates the national economy today, particularly the enterprising men of business who would be spending money to create jobs if they could see a profit.

America boasts about its profit system but few people call it by its right name—it's really a profit-and-loss system. That's why American business is worried. It sees today little chance for a fair margin of profit and sees plenty of chance to incur a substantial margin of loss.

If the administration is to preserve the free enterprise system and to spare America the kind on socialism which Nikita Khrushchev has been predicting as likely to be embraced by our grandchildren, the Kennedy administration must discover the obvious—which is that, unless the government begins to concentrate soon on how to make business succeed, the Soviet prophecy could come true much earlier.

—now it's for more or less."—Arnold H. Glasow.

They were John Tyler, at 23, and Theodore Roosevelt, at 22. Both later became widowers and remarried.

400 Attend Saxon Club Song Festival

Approximately 400 were in attendance at the annual spring concert and Fasching Ball, a pre-Lenten festivity, Saturday evening at the Saxon Club.

Featured on the program were the Canton Karpethen Singers and the German Hungarian Chorus of Youngstown as well as the 30 voices of the Salem Saxon Chorus. Also presenting a duet number was Dorothy Spack and William Jermelenko.

The local group of singers is composed of men and women of all ages. They meet for rehearsals at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday evenings and membership in the organization is open to anyone interested in group singing. The chorus recently made guest appearances in concerts at New Castle and Youngstown and will appear in Canton in the near future.

William Girscht is president of the chorus, which is directed by Karl Meinhardt. Miss Bonnie Mith is accompanist.

Boy Hurt When He Runs Against Auto

Danny B. McCool, 10, of 1262 Court St. was treated at Salem Central Clinic for a bump on the forehead and bruises of the left leg received when he ran into the street and was struck by a car at the intersection of E. State St. and Lincoln Ave. at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Police said the youth disregarded a red traffic light, ran across the street between cars and bounded into the side of a car operated by Charles L. Fineran, 71, of 584 E. 5th St., who was traveling north on Lincoln.

Cars operated by Lloyd Mossey, 65, of the Golf Course Rd., RD 3, Salem, and David T. Roth, 16, of 877 Newgarden Ave., collided near the E. State St.-Lincoln Ave. intersection at 5:15 p.m. Sunday. According to police, Mossey was stopped for traffic when he was struck from behind by Roth.

Demonstration Given On 'Rescue Breathing'

Mrs. Henry Carliariello of Salem, a first aid instructor for North Columbiana County Chapter of the American Red Cross, demonstrated and lectured on "Rescue Breathing" recently at the American Legion Hall in Lisbon.

Frank Morlan, member of the Lisbon Fire Department, who assisted Mrs. Carliariello, also showed how a resuscitator is operated.

Attending the demonstration were 88 Girl Scouts and their leaders. The event was arranged by Mrs. Donald Loch of Lisbon.

Mrs. Z. R. Taylor, J. R. Stiver Recipients of VFW Awards

J. Raymond Stiver of 1587 E. 3rd St., plant manager of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., received the Veterans of Foreign Wars community service award, and Mrs. Z. R. Taylor of E. 8th St., the Ladies Auxiliary community service award, Saturday evening at the 40th anniversary banquet of Allen K. Reynolds Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars at the hall.

Stiver is president of Salem Chamber of Commerce and has been active in Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the Rotary Club's crippled children project and numerous other community affairs.

Mrs. Taylor has been active in the Junior Red Cross of the area. She spoke to the 120 members and guests assembled of the work of this organization. The subject of Stiver's talk was, "Ohio Bell vs Communism."

Two charter members, James

Rhodes and James Nicholson, received 40 year continuous membership pins. Of the 41 members signing the charter when the post was established in 1922, 11 survive, it was reported.

The post was presented with a life membership certificate in the VFW National Home at Eton Rapids, Mich. It also received a "money tree" from the Ladies Auxiliary and a donation of money from the Dads of Foreign Service Veterans.

The main address of the evening was delivered by James Comedy of Akron, department senior vice commander of the State of Ohio, who spoke of "Activities of the Veterans Organizations Patriotically."

A certificate for co-operation with other veterans organizations was presented by John Herman Sr., in behalf of the American Legion Post.

Following the coverdinner, dancing was enjoyed.

Marshall Sutherin acted as toastmaster and Michael Pasch was chairman in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Candidates Initiated At Moose Program

The degree team from Niles, in charge of Roman Passawitz, initiated a class of candidates when Salem Order of Moose was host Sunday to the East Ohio Legion of the Moose 87.

Four Salem persons were in the class of initiates. About 100 members were present.

Ed Whitacre of Niles, a pilgrim, the highest order of the Moose, was honored guest. Arnold Densmore of East Liverpool was master of ceremonies.

Arrangements for the dinner were in charge of Walter Cook, secretary of the local lodge. The Women of the Moose Auxiliary served the dinner.

East Ohio Legion will meet again June 3 in Niles.

Legion County Council Birthday Dinner Set

The 43rd American Legion Columbiana County Council birthday dinner will be held Saturday evening at 6:30 at John J. Welsh post home in Lisbon. Department commander Chester Steller of Creston will be the speaker.

Dancing will follow the dinner with Nancy Clark and her Jive Men furnishing the music. Reservations are to be made with John Herman Jr. by Wednesday.

Coming events in the 10th district of the American Legion, State of Ohio, are the spring conference at East Sparta, April 1; a trap shoot at New Philadelphia, May 12, and district convention at Massillon, June 9 and 10.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyna®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

Mrs. Terrell Ray Horne

Kathleen Schooley Wed To Terrell Ray Horne

Miss Kathleen Anne Schooley, daughter of Mrs. Paul Stoffer of 128 W. 2nd St. and the late Wilmer Earl Schooley of East Fairfield, became the bride of Terrell Ray Horne, son of Mrs. Henry H. Horne and the late Henry Horne of 3234 Houston Ave., Macdon, Ga., in the First Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Rev. Ray J. Hunter officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated in green and white and banked with schellera and grape ivy. Lighting the altar were 14 candles in holders and twin brass candelabra.

Marshall Bailey of Salem was the organist. Given in marriage by her stepfather, Paul Elmer Stoffer, the bride wore a white chiffon ballerina-length gown with white lace jacket, bow hat with flutter veil and carried a white orchid corsage on a Bible with an arrangement of white miniature carnations. The Bible was a gift from her mother.

Mrs. Robert Green was the matron of honor. She was dressed in pink and carried a nosegay of shaded green carnations showered with satin streamers.

John Irel Davis of Kensington, serving in the Army in Maryland, was best man.

Fifty guests were registered by Miss Geraldine Hixson of Canfield at a reception at the bride's home.

A two-tier wedding cake encircled with green shamrocks centered the table. Serving were Mrs. Grant Hixson of Canfield, Mrs. Frank Goodman.

The bride is a graduate of Salem High School and is employed by Paris Cleaners.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Macon High School in Macon, Ga., and attended Maryland University. He is serving in the Army in Maryland.

Following a honeymoon through the southern states, the bride will live with her parents while her husband is overseas.

WHY ALL THIS TALK ABOUT OUR KIDS' PHYSICAL FITNESS? THERE ARE TOO MANY OTHER PROBLEMS TO WORRY ABOUT!

We've plenty of problems, that's for sure. But maybe you don't realize this: almost 50 percent of our children aren't strong or agile enough to pass a simple physical achievement test.

That's why our kids need a physical education program in their schools that will provide at least 15 minutes of vigorous activity every day.

Ask at your next PTA meeting what your school is doing. Act to improve our youngsters' physical fitness!

Accident

Impact.

The engine struck the car on the driver's side, impaling the vehicle on the front of the engine.

The door of the auto sprung open and Lucian was partially thrown out. The car was shoved along the tracks for eight-tenths of a mile before the train finally came to a halt near Franklin Square.

All four victims were pinned in the tangled wreckage, and it took 50 minutes for rescue workers to extricate their bodies.

Columbiana county Coroner William A. Koloszi said they were killed instantly. Death was due to skull fractures, but they also suffered multiple other injuries.

Saw Train too Late

The Ohio Highway Patrol said Mrs. Clewell apparently failed to see the train or the flashers until the car was only about 10 yards from the crossing. The 30-foot skid marks showed Mrs. Clewell had applied the brakes just before the car was hit.

Carl S. Herr of Cleveland, manager of public relations for the tape in one of the engines, which automatically records the speed of the train, would be opened today to determine the exact speed of the train.

The father and three other children survive.

The father, Lawrence H. Clewell, is employed by the Church Budget Co., a printing firm here. He and a son, Christian, 13, stayed home to do chores on their small farm on the northeastern edge of Guilford Lake.

By fate, Lucian was in the car instead of his brother Christian. Before the mother and three children left for church, Christian and Lucian had a dispute over which would stay home an help their father, who was suffering from a cold, with the chores.

"I'm the man of the family,"

"HOSS" UNHOSSED — Actor Dan Blocker, who plays "Hoss" Cartwright in a TV western series, broke his collarbone and suffered a shoulder injury when he fell off a horse. He is welcomed back by actress Luciana Paluzzi.

I'll stay home," Christian told Lucian.

Mrs. Clewell was active in the church and civic activities. Her husband is a member of the church choir.

The Rev. T.G.S. Whitney, pastor of the church, heard the tragic news of the crash just as he was completing Sunday service. He immediately went to the Clewell home to comfort the family. Funeral Rites Arranged

A mass funeral service will be held for the victims Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Church of Our Saviour, with Rev. T. G. S. Whitney, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Wooddale Cemetery, west of Guilford Lake. Friends may call at the Stark Memorial Tuesday evening from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Clewell was born Dec. 17, 1915 in Vivian, S. D., a daughter of Homer and Lena Bohner Gamble.

A graduate of Barnesville Boarding School and Salem Business College, she was past matron of Guilford Juvenile Grange and a member of Beta Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority. A 4-H club adviser, she was a member of the Morning Guild of the Church of Our Saviour to which the family belonged. She resided in this area most of her life.

Besides her father of RD 3, Salem, and her husband, Lawrence, whom she married Nov. 4, 1939, she leaves two sons, Lt. Robert L. Clewell II of Fort Campbell, Ky., and Christian R. Clewell at the home, a daughter, Lynne Clewell, a senior at Hiram College; four brothers, Wilfred Gamble of RD, Kensington, Carl Gamble of Winona, G. Alfred Gamble of RD, East Rochester, and Homer Gamble of Winterhaven, Fla.; and a sister, Mrs. Robert F. Ward of RD 3, Salem.

Alice Rebecca Clewell was born July 10, 1947 in Salem. A freshman at United High School, she was a member of the Rainbow Girls of Hanoverton, the Pi Mu Music S, Sorority of the school and Guilford 4-H Club.

Jennifer was born Jan. 11, 1950 in Salem. A sixth grade student at United School, she was a class cheerleader and a member of the Guilford 4-H Club.

Lucian was born in Salem March 11, 1951. He was a fifth grade student at United School.

That the West will follow a similar course at Geneva this month was indicated by Foster when he said, "We will need to have some kind of inspectors or verifiers along the line of the 12 to 20 inspections or perhaps more that were discussed in April of 1961."

In an address Saturday to a Conservative party meeting, the Earl of Home, Britain's foreign secretary, said, "We and the United States are willing to agree to such inspection as is needed to give confidence that the measures of disarmament to which we subscribe are carried through and that those weapons and forces cannot be replaced."

kept out of sight by government interrogators. His capture, trial and imprisonment was probed by a special board headed by retired federal Judge E. Barrett Prettyman.

Powers is understood to have contended that the force of his plane's speedy descent prevented action to destroy it.

Nevertheless, there is resentment among some members of Congress over the pilot's failure to destroy his plane and its equipment when it fell to Soviet soil. These members said there were five different methods of destroying the craft.

Military experts doubt Soviet claims that anti-aircraft missiles brought it to earth from an altitude of more than 68,000 feet.

Some members of Congress who have received piecemeal information about the inquiry said they felt the findings generally would uphold a June 1960 report in which the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said it had "no reason to believe that technical preparations for the flight were faulty or that the pilot was unreliable in any respect."

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said in an interview that McCone will be asked to duplicate his testimony Tuesday for the full Armed Services Committee. Russell, who heads the committee, said he will ask its members to vote on whether they want to call Powers for questioning.

After a conference with Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., told a reporter the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is interested only in completing its 1960 inquiry.

"We are not interested in persecuting Powers or in making him a hero," Sparkman said. "He will be called only if the committee feels that action is necessary to round out its record."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda took note of the meeting by publishing a flood of complaints about impending crop failures and other farm problems which remain unsolved as the Soviet Union moves into the fourth year of its latest seven-year plan.

Many of the party leaders assembled for the committee meeting are from farming areas where Pravda complains the problems are most acute.

Clippers Cop 'A' Sectional, Face Lakeview In District

County Quintet Laces Lake 63-29 For Title

Columbiana, the only area team along with Salem to survive post season tourney play thus far, will tangle with the Bulldogs (12-4) of Trumbull County in the second game of the night, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

One other game is slated for Thursday with Hudson (13-8) of Summit County taking on Lorain St. Mary's (16-4) of Lorain County at 7 p.m.

Dalton (16-6) of Wayne County and Pymatuning (21-1) of Ash-tabula County both drew byes in the first round and will meet at 8 p.m. Friday, with the winner getting a berth to the Regionals. District action will wind up Saturday night, with Badger (19-5) of Trumbull County, also drawing the winner of the Hudson-Lorain St. Mary's tilt at 7 p.m., and St. John Cantius (4-15) of Cuyahoga County, the fourth bye team, playing the Columbiana-Lakeview winner at 8:30 p.m. Both winners Saturday will also get berths in the Regionals.

Drawings for the eight-team District tourney were made Sunday at 2 p.m. at the fieldhouse, conducted by tournament manager Chuck Wright, coordinator of athletics at Canton City Schools.

The tournament-wise Clips found Lake an easy opponent in the final, compared with the struggle they had with county foe Leetonia Friday night in the opening round. Columbiana came out of that one with a hard-fought 58-47 decision.

Page 8 THE SALEM, OHIO, NEWS MONDAY, MARCH 5, 1962

THE TOURNEY champs put on one of their finest performances of the season, both offensively and defensively, in downing the Blue Streaks. The stout Columbiana defense just never let the Stark

Countians get rolling as they did in their 50-41 conquest of Crestview Friday night.

Columbiana put three players in double figures in rolling to its 10th straight victory and 17th in 20 games. Lake ended the season with a 11-10 record.

Paul Schulz, 6-1 senior center who tallied 23 points in the Leetonia win Friday night, came back with 17. Six-foot forward Dale Murphy banged home 15 points and 5-10 guard Ken Gallagher meshed 10 for the Clippers.

Terry Harting, a 6-4 junior, was about the only offensive spark for Lake, scoring 14 points and pulling down seven of his team's 25 rebounds.

Junior Murphy grabbed 11 of Columbiana's 42 rebounds to earn the plaudits of Coach Berryman.

THE WINNERS utilized an all-court press most of the time, but Lake seemed to have no trouble getting the ball up the floor. However, the Streaks committed numerous violations once they had the ball across the 10-second line.

Lake ended with 21 turnovers compared to only five for Columbiana, which was a main factor in the eventual outcome.

Much of the lopsided score is told in the shooting statistics, where the Clips were 23 of 55 from the field fro 4.8 per cent and 17 of 28 from the foul lanes for 60.7 per cent. The Blue Streaks could make only 10 of 53 field

After the game, assistant tournament manager Dan Risaliti presented the Sectional tournament championship trophy to co-captains Murphy and Gallagher.

At Warren Hardin's gym Saturday night, Lakeview High squeezed by Springfield Local, Mahoning County's last entry in the tourney, 58-56, and Badger defeated Windham 57-30 to capture the Warren Sectional and advance to the Canton District.

Lakeview (20-4) and Badger (19-5) are from Trumbull County, coming out of the TIA tournament before the sectional round.

SPRINGFIELD held a 29-28 lead at halftime, but the Tigers fell behind after three periods 47-41. Ted Slagle pulled Springfield even at 56-all with 2:01 left in the game, but Sonny Pease hit on a layup to sink the Tigers.

Pete Hanen featured for the Bulldogs with 21 markers, while Slagle had 18 for the losers. Springfield bowed out with a 16-8 mark.

Badger had no trouble with Windham, the Portage County champion, after piling up a 14-4 lead in the first quarter. With three players hitting in double digits, Badger went on to a 29-15 command at halftime.

Bill Kistler's 14 points paced the winners. Roy Myers adding 13 and Harold Wilson 12. Larry Minter and Chales Schimmel had eight apiece for Windham.

Six Openings Left In NCAA, NIT Tourneys

College Basketball Heading Into Last Week Of Season

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

College basketball is heading into the last week of its regular season but in the jargon of Madison Avenue, there is considerable firming up and finalizing to do, tournament-wise.

Of the two major postseason classics, the NCAA has four entries to go in its 25-member field and the National Invitation Tournament needs two more clubs to complete its 12-team competition.

At the earliest the two tourneys will have their slates filled a week from tonight, when Cincinnati and Bradley tangle on a neutral court at Evansville, Ind., to settle their Missouri Valley Conference has-de. The winner will go to the NCAA, the loser to the NIT.

The other question marks are in the Big Eight, Middle Atlantic and Southwest conferences. Each of these races could result in a playoff.

In the Big Eight, Kansas State tied Colorado for first place Saturday night with a 60-48 victory

Cincy, Bradley Face Playoff

OSU, Minus Lustre, Ready To Rebound Against Indiana

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes are minus some of their lustre today, but they are still kings of the Big Ten Conference, owners of a block of records, and headed for a shot at the NCAA championship.

Wisconsin's Badgers whipped the Ohio powerhouse 86-67 Saturday at Madison, the biggest margin ever run up against Jerry Lucas, John Havlicek and Mel Nowell—the three seniors who have dominated the Big Ten the last three seasons.

The Terrific Trio now has played in 41 conference games and won 39 of them. The only previous league loss was to Indiana, 99-83, on Feb. 29, 1960. It was their fifth loss in 79 games, and it ended a 27-contest Big Ten victory streak.

The illustrious kids wind up the regular campaign here Saturday against Indiana, and the rebounding Bucks could make it a miserable TV appearance for the Hoosiers. After that, regardless of the outcome, the Bucks head into the NCAA tourney — in which they lost the 1961 title to Cincinnati in an overtime.

The Bearcats, meanwhile, need an extra game in the Missouri Valley Conference to qualify for a chance to repeat as kings of the NCAA. Bradley's Braves dumped St. Louis 58-47 Saturday night to move into a final-standing tie with Cincinnati in the loop, and the two teams will battle it out in Evansville, Ind., March 12 for the tourney bid. They traded home-and-home games during the campaign.

In other weekend action: Wittenberg's small college national champions defeated Akron 56-49 to take the Ohio Conference Tournament for the third straight time. The win sent the Springfielders into next weekend's Mid-East regional tourney in the Rubber City against Gannon, Youngstown and unbeaten Florida A. & M., with the winner moving on to the national small college finals at Evansville, Ind.

Bowling Green's Mid-American champs, also an NCAA entrant, lost 81-68 to Loyola of Chicago in the final tuneup. Dayton, headed for the NIT in Madison Square Garden, was an easy 94-65 victor over Kent State.

7 Teams Clinch Loop Titles

Pairings, Sites Set In Small College Playoffs

WHEATON, Ill. (AP)—With the exception of the North Central Conference champion, the National Collegiate Athletic Association Sunday completed pairings and sites for its college division basketball tournament.

The North Central Conference representative will be Augustana (SD) unless State College of Iowa defeats North Dakota tonight. In that case, Augustana and State College will play Wednesday for the conference title and playoff berth.

Seven teams clinched conference championships over the weekend to advance to the 32-team tournament, which has its finals scheduled at Evansville, Ind., March 15-16. Albright and Union (Tenn.) were selected Sunday as at-large teams.

Harvey Chrouser, athletic director of Wheaton College and chairman of the NCAA college basketball tournament committee, announced the following regional sites and pairings:

Northeast at Rochester, N.Y.—St. Anselm's vs. Northeastern Mass.; Fairfield (Conn.) vs. Rochester (N.Y.).

South Central at Evansville, Ind.—Southern Illinois vs. Union; Evansville vs. North Carolina A&T.

East at Redding, Pa.—Mount St. Mary's (Md.) vs. Albright; Hofstra vs. C.W. Post (N.Y.).

Midwest at Akron, Ohio—Florida A&M vs. Youngstown; Wittenberg, Ohio, vs. Gannon (Pa.).

Pacific Coast at Sacramento, Calif.—Frisno vs. California Poly; Seattle Pacific vs. Sacramento State.

Great Lakes at Valparaiso, Ind.—Illinois Normal vs. Concordia River Forest, Ill.; Kentucky State vs. Valparaiso.

Southwest at Jonesboro, Ark.—Southeast Missouri vs. Abilene over the Buffaloes. Each has two games left, K-State at Oklahoma State tonight and at Nebraska Wednesday, Colorado at Missouri tonight and with Kansas Saturday. If they still are tied at the windup, the situation will be resolved by either a playoff or a toss of a coin.

In the Middle Atlantic, Temple is 8-1 after beating Gettysburg 49-44 Saturday while Lafayette (9-2) was losing to Delaware 57-56. St. Joseph's (Pa.) is between at 7-1 and plays at Lafayette Tuesday night. This is another prime prospect for playoff, with the consolation prize for the loser a spot in the NIT.

The Southwest clubs were idle over the weekend but close out their season Tuesday night, when Texas Tech is at Rice and Southern Methodist entertains Arkansas in the key games. Tech and SMU are co-leaders at 10-3 and should they finish even, they'll play off at Fort Worth Friday night.

With the pressure on, Bradley tied Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley title with a 58-47 victory at St. Louis Saturday night. A 14-point spurt in the second half paced by All-America Chet Walker nailed it down for the Braves.

Although a flock of titles and tournament spots were decided over the weekend and several more races were scrambled by the premier development was Wisconsin's celebrated upset over Ohio State.

The Badgers, swift, confident and determined, ran off from the Buckeyes 86-67 in posting the biggest surprise of the year. Ohio State, unchallenged as the country's No. 1 team with a spotless 22-0 record and already winner of its third successive Big Ten title, played even at Wisconsin until the buzzing Badgers started pulling away late in the first half. Afterward, it was a futile game of trying to catch up for the Bucks.

Elsewhere Saturday, All America Len Chappell's 31 points led Wake Forest to a 77-66 victory over Clemson in the Atlantic Coast tourney title game. West Virginia smothered nervous Virginia Tech 88-72 and took its seventh Southern Conference title in eight years.

Massachusetts won its first Yankee crown, beating New Hampshire 109-62. Pepperdine swept to the West Coast A.C. championship by stopping St. Mary's 81-76. Utah State earned the Skyline Conference's NCAA berth with its 88-77 decision over New Mexico, paced by Cornell Green's 46 points. And Kentucky was named the Southeastern Conference representative to the NCAA.

At 21, A Mature Athlete

Jerry Lucas' Intelligence, Modesty Captivate Fans

By CHUCH SUCH
Brush-Moore Special Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio—Jerry Lucas is known to millions of people as a great basketball player.

They respect him for his tremendous athletic talent. Countless thousands of youngsters idolize him.

Adults generally are more reserved in their hero worshiping. But many have placed the Ohio State great on a pedestal. And that number is growing every day—mainly because more and more people are getting to know him better.

TO KNOW LUCAS is to like him.

Hardened reporters, who have interviewed scores of stars, are captivated by Lucas.

His intelligence, mannerisms, modesty and an unbelievably relaxed disposition all complement his great athletic talents to the degree that it makes him one of the most unusual young athletes of our time.

Fame and honors galore have done nothing but make him a finer person.

For his 21 years, he is a mature man.

LUCAS WAS ASKED why he is turning down a lucrative offer to play professional basketball. "There comes a time when a person has to decide what he wants in life," Lucas replied. "I don't want basketball to be my life."

But how can you turn down more money than most people even dream of making in a lifetime? Isn't money important to you?

"Money is very important," Luke replied. "But I believe I can make enough money — maybe not right away — but eventually. I think I can do well enough to get the things I want in life. I don't think money is everything."

WHAT TYPE of future does he have planned?

"Well, I haven't exactly made up my mind for certain. I'd like very much to enter law school after graduation. I'm considering that seriously."

"I'm majoring in marketing. If I don't enter law school, I still plan to continue my education. I want to get a master's degree."

LUCAS WAS ASKED if he had offers for a job.

"Yes, I've had a number of business and professional people talk to me but I'm not ready to take a job. As I said, I want to get more education first," he stated.

"I have two quarters to complete before I get my degree. My wife has a full year ahead of her. I want her to finish school, too. I want her to have her degree. She's going to enroll again in the spring quarter."

Lucas was married to Treva Geib, a Columbus girl, in September 1960. They met in an Ohio State classroom.

CLASSMATES say Treva is a highly intelligent girl who pulls down big grades. She's majoring in elementary education.

Treva made a trip to the West Coast and due to automobile trouble, returned too late to enroll for the winter quarter. So, she took a job in a Columbus bank until time for the spring school term.

When she returns to school, Jerry will drop out to earn some money. He has been flooded by requests to speak. He has accepted more than 30 speaking engagements within Ohio, for which he will be paid.

IF HIS TALKS are on par with his basketball and his scholastic work, his audiences will be in for a big treat.

Lucas has an amazing scholastic average of better than 3.5 out of a 4.0 in classroom studies. Last quarter his grades were straight A's. And his subjects were difficult—marketing, philosophy, business organization and sociology.

His fantastic record in the classroom, while devoting considerable time to sports, has been the biggest thing to happen to athletics since the games were invented.

Some educators have hammered at athletics in the school program on all levels as evil and a detriment to education.

LUCAS and the entire Ohio State basketball team has disproved that claim. In fact, the Buckeyes went on to prove that classroom work and athletics are so related that they have immeasurable assets as aids to each other.

The Ohio State team finished high above the average male student grade last quarter. The starting five and customary first replacement averaged 3.1 out of a possible 4.0.

The Cincinnati Royals of the professional basketball ranks have the draft right to Lucas. Pepper Wilson, general manager of the Royals, has been quoted as saying he would offer Lucas so much money that he just couldn't turn down the offer.

UNDOUBTEDLY, it would make pro football and baseball bonuses look like pocket change. Lucas already is saying no.

"I think the Royals may have taken the wrong approach," a spokesman opined. "Lucas can't be bought. It can't be proved, but this may have been a factor in Luke's decision already. Luke would react negatively to anyone who thought he could buy his services. He has high principles."

Lucas has been described as a complete basketball player. He has mastered every phase of the game. Many feel he could average 40 points a game easily if he wasn't dedicated to being a team player.

He's a superbly gifted young man, and a complete young man in every sense of the word.

At Ohio State, he may even become a legend some day.

Rocky Signs; Jay, Cepeda Stay Holdouts

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer
Joey Jay and Orlando Cepeda are the last of the big name major league holdouts today, heading a list of 18 unsigned players who will find major league general managers giving more time to the playing field and less to the paying field this week.

Rocky Colavito of Detroit was the latest of the super-stars to sign a 1962 contract when he agreed to terms Sunday after a four-day holdout. His salary will be a reported $48,500.

Colavito, who took part in a Tigers' drill at Lakeland, Fla., soon after agreeing with General Manager Rick Ferrell's offer, got $35,000 last year for hitting 45 home runs, batting in 140 runs and ringing up a .290 average. He had sought more than $50,000 this year.

Jay, who won 21 games for Cincinnati's National League champions a year ago, has offered to buy his contract for $200,000 from the Reds so he could make a deal for himself. Reds' General Manager Bill DeWitt has refused. He indicated Sunday that the 26-year old right-hander can sit out the season if he doesn't sign.

Cepeda, the San Francisco Giants slugging first baseman, has continually balked at terms but the Giants aren't concerned about his playing condition after a season of winter baseball.

Eight of the holdouts are pitchers, with the Giants' Jack Sanford, Pete Ramos and Camillo Pascual of Minnesota and reliever Don McMahon of Milwaukee heading the list. Others are Bob Miller of Cincinnati, Jim Owens of Philadelphia and Ray Moore of the Twins.

The Reds have the biggest hold-out problems, with third baseman Gene Freese and utility man Cookie Rojas also unsigned.

Other holdouts include infielders Pumpsie Green of Boston, Elio Chacon of the New York Mets, Felix Torres of the Los Angeles Angels and Bob Herrera of St. Louis, and catcher Doug Camilli of the Dodgers.

Outfielder Tony Gonzalez of Philadelphia signed Sunday and relief pitcher Turk Lown of the Chicago White Sox ended his brief holdout Saturday.

Jay, who upped his original offer to the Reds by $50,000, claimed "I don't believe I'm being treated fairly." He's asking a $30,000 salary, after getting half that a year ago. The Reds had gone to $26,000.

Cepeda wants a whopping 100 per cent increase over his $30,000 1961 contract, and the Giants are offering $42,500.

Hoppel Cops Third State Mat Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Maple Heights sits on the state high school wrestling throne today and boasts four champion grapplers.

Carl Hoppel of Beaver Local, only Columbiana County entrant to wind up in the top four, copped his third state wrestling title in four years in the 145-pound class. Larry Yost and Dave Stacey, the Beavers' two other qualifiers, failed to get in among the top four contenders in their classes.

Coach Jack O'Rourke's Beavers finished with 15 points, tied for ninth place in the event with Toledo Central Catholic, North Olmsted and Huron.

Two of the champs are identical twin brothers. Jeff Sadowski claimed the 120-pound title and his brother, George, annexed the 127-pound crown. The other two Maple Heights victories in the state tournament here Saturday came in the 133-pound division with Joseph Peritori and in the 165-pound class with Tim Montowski.

Cleveland area schools finished one-two-three and dominated the entire field. The champions picked up 65 points. Euclid was a distance second with 35 and Cleveland South was third with 23.

Then came Toledo St. Francis 22, Mayfield Heights 21; Dayton Stebbins 20; Eastlake North 19; Elyria 16; Toledo Central Catholic, North Olmsted, Huron and Beaver Local 15; Cleveland Brush 13; Cleveland West Tech and Barberton 12; Toledo Clay, Dayton Roosevelt and Bowling Green 11; Lakewood St. Edward and Brecksville 10; Orange and Solon 9; Garfield Heights and Parma 8; Worthington and Willoughby 7; Archbold 6, and Aurora, Mentor and Cuyahoga Falls 5.

THE HANDS OF AN ASTRONAUT are symbols of America's multi-billion dollar exploration of space—a vital part of our defense. • Your tax dollars help pay for such projects. And it is easier for the government to budget money for such essentials when it cuts out needless spending in other places. • For example, there is no need to spend any taxes for more government electric power plants and power lines, as some people are now proposing. The investor-owned electric light and power companies—your electric company is one of them—can supply all the additional electric power America will need! • And your hard-earned tax money can be spent to keep our country's defense strong.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. H. T. HYMAN
Observe Baby's First Steps

There are few accomplishments than that of the infant learning to stand, balance and walk. And few sights more heart-warming than the facial expressions of the triumphant baby who successfully makes the perilous journey from the arms of one parent to those of the other.

Yet there are times when this accomplishment is marred by difficulties, some of serious importance. Others are of little significance, especially if treated early and with skill.

HERE ARE SOME of the observations that may be of importance to your growing youngster:

Delayed walking beyond the age of 15 months may be indicative of a general state of backwardness, or of mere sluggishness of the thyroid gland (cretinism). In either case, prompt treatment by dietary means or by administration of thyroid extract may successfully overcome the basic trouble before permanent damage is done.

A limp due to shortening of one leg is usually a result of a congenital hip dislocation or abnormality that can be corrected by skilled treatment conducted by an orthopedic specialist.

A waddling gait suggests trouble with both hips. And this, too, is responsive to skilled orthopedic treatment.

A tendency to cross the legs, or a scissors gait, is most likely due to nerve injury, so-called spastic paralysis or Little's disease.

And, as the damage may be located in the brain (cerebral palsy), your doctor will want you to consult a nerve specialist.

ist. Or you may be referred to the local office of the CP Foundation, a nonprofit organization that devotes its efforts to the care of patients and to researches into the fundamental causes of the disturbance.

INABILITY TO KEEP in balance, with swaying or even falling to one side or the other, may be the result of serious damage to the hearing mechanism, the brain or the muscles. But also it may be due to an easily correctable cause such as overdoses of certain medicines. Since most of these disturbances of gait will be noted first by parents, and many are correctable, especially if treated early, you can see how important it is to be observant of your child's first efforts to stand and walk.

Deerfield

Sirenettes will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Jane Sutcliffe. The new officers will conduct the meeting.

Mrs. Dolores Reese and children of East Liverpool spent several days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Earnest.

M. an Mr. Dale Thomas of Alliance and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thomas of Ravenna were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Gamber.

Mr. and Mrs. John Colston of Mogadore were visitors in the Cecil Johnston home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tanner of Sebring, Mr. and Mrs. William Earnest and daughter Mary Beth of Warren were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Earnest.

Mrs. Lucille Earnest, who is a patient in Ravenna Hospital, is reported about the same.

Future Teachers Association of the Southeast High School will sponsor a skating party Tuesday evening at the Starlite Arena, proceeds to be used to buy equipment for their group.

Damascus Ruritans To Meet Wednesday

DAMASCUS — Ruritan club members will meet at the Methodist church Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be in charge of the recreation and the Community Good Will Committee, Norman Henderson, chairman.

Two members of the Babcock-Wilcox Co. of the Barberton Plant, G. G. Brown of the public relations department and C. H. Lawrence of the Nuclear Products Division, will present talks and a movie entitled "Underway". The movie depicts Babcock and Wilcox part in building the first atomic-powered merchant ship, "The N. S. Savannah."

East Fairfield News

The Country Squire Quartet presented music for the East Fairfield Methodist Church father and son banquet at the church. Rev. Ray Snyder of New Alexandria presented the musical program. Mrs. Thelma Adams was hostess to the Joy Circle of the WSCS of the church, with Mrs. Ruth Mercer co-hostess. Mrs. Kathleen Smith led devotions and Mrs. Loise Poppel was program chairman. Steve Burlingame was honored.

Shrine Club Hear Talk On World Tensions

Salem Area Shrine Club met Thursday evening at Timelines with Art Ort, president, in charge. Charles Day, WGAR news director of Cleveland, was introduced by Don Bailey, program chairman. Day spoke on the topic, "New Tensions in 1962." Pointing out the four key trouble spots in the world as Cuba, Berlin, the Congo and Laos, he paraphrased the situation as a four burner set-up with Khrushchev keeping all spots on fire by shifting from the back to front burners from time to time.

Two 50-year Masons, James Hay and R. S. McCulloch, were introduced by Ort. John T. Wolfenden, high priest and prophet of El Koran Temple in Cleveland, spoke briefly. George Stamolis of the Youngtown Shrine Club was present, and three past presidents of the Salem Club, Walter B. Null, Richard Myers and Robert Bryan, also attended.

Ladies Night will be held in Columbiana April 5.

'SPEED KING' DIES CLEVELAND (AP)—Joseph F. Coffey, a retired New York Central engineer known as "Speed King," died Sunday at 81.

In 1929 he piloted the New York Central's Ohio State Limited over the 138 rail miles from Columbus to Cleveland in 112 minutes. Fellow employees nicknamed him the Speed King and it stuck with him through the years.

Sunday at a dinner at his home in observance of his 75th birthday anniversary. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baldwin of Elkton, Mr. and Mrs. Odes Burlingame of Williamsport, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Beach and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ruckman of East Liverpool and Mr. and Mrs. Dana Howell and Mrs. Dina Booher of Newell and Pamela and Janey Campbell.

Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Morris and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Noel visited Mr. and Mrs. Don Morris of Beloit.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lanterman of Columbiana visited Mr. and Mrs. Louis Groubert Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hawkins had Mr. and Mrs. Alva Cope and Marge Cope and daughter as Sunday dinner guests.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Bable included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Pfeiffer of Middleton, and Rev. Mark George and family.

Mrs. Louis Groubert Sr. underwent surgery Wednesday at the Salem Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cope visited Mrs. Grace Fitzsimmons of Salem.

James Crook of Canton spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Martha Crook.

Mrs. Robert Crook visited Mrs. Wilma Burns of Salem. Mrs. Robert Crook and Mrs. Martha Crook visited Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Imboden of Enon Valley.

Guests of Miss Evelyn Webber were Carolyn Bush of Greenford, Mrs. Kay Imboden of New Waterford and Mrs. Beverly Fatanni of New Waterford.

FACES CHARGE

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 29-year-old mother who claimed she needed money to care for her three children was charged Thursday with embezzling $1,134 from the West Side Federal Savings & Loan Association in suburban Fairview Park.

FBI agents quoted Mrs. Barbara Ann Elliott of Parkview as saying she used half the money to pay bills and the rest of the fund shortage represented errors she was afraid to report. She has been separated from her husband for a year. Mrs. Elliott was freed under personal bond after she waived a hearing.

PLASTERERS VOTE

CLEVELAND (AP) — Some 200 members of the Plasterers Union Local 80 have voted to place their local in voluntary trusteeship under their international organization pending the outcome of an investigation by the international. The action taken Thursday night followed a Washington meeting Tuesday of a five-man delegation from the local with international officers. They discussed local 80's shortage of per capita payments to the international. Eugene Burns, Local 80 head since 1952, said his unit's difficulties stemmed from a membership drop from 750 to 400 within a two-year period.

CONTINUE SEARCH

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hamilton County police continued their search of the Winton Woods area today for a man whose car was found partly submerged in a creek in Winton Woods, north of here.

Officers theorized Robert A. corn Jr., 27, may have lost control of the car on the flooded road and driven into the creek.

With the Students

Four area students, Mrs. Daniel Jacobs, Lynn King, Anne Speidel, and Elizabeth West, have been named to the Dean's List for scholastic achievement during the first semester at Mount Union College.

Mrs. Jacobs (the former Kathy Hanna) is a junior chemistry major. She is the daughter of Mrs. John W. Hanna of 765 E. Third St.

She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshmen women's honorary; Alembroic, honorary chemical fraternity; Phi Sigma, honorary biological society; and American Chemical Society.

King is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John King of RD 4, Salem. He is a sophomore majoring in history and English. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, Student Christian Association and the International Relations Club.

Miss Speidel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Speidel of RD 1, Hanoverton, is a senior French major. Her campus activities include membership in Alpha Xi Delta sorority and Alpha Lambda Delta.

Miss West is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron West of Damascus. She is a sophomore majoring in biology. She is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Alpha Chi Omega sorority and the Bowman Scholars.

Miss Carol Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Murphy of 534 W. 6th St., was recently pledged to Mu Phi Epsilon Sorority at Mount Union College, where she is a freshman student majoring in organ. She is organist at the First Baptist Church.

Martha Talbott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Talbott of 1622 Southeast Blvd., a freshman in the School of Arts and Science at Kent State University, is a pledge of Delta Zeta Sorority.

Ronald Kenrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kenrich, along with 48 other members of the Capital University Chapel Choir, to make an European tour next summer. Ronald is a junior at Capital, where he is majoring in music education. He was graduated from Greenford High School in 1959.

Willard Wayne Dunn, son of Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Dunn of Salem, is enrolled in Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

ACADEMY DEDICATED

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST Church leaders expressed elation Sunday at the dedication of a $60,000 junior academy and recreation center in suburban Lakewood.

The ceremonies climaxed a three-year building program and marked the establishment of the denomination's 33rd grade school in Ohio. Donald W. Hunter of Mount Vernon, president of the denomination's Ohio Conference, made the dedicatory address.

SATELLITE SCHEDULE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States' much traveled satellite, Echo I, will make only four visible passes over Ohio in the next eight days, and all will be low in the southern sky moving northeast.

The scheduled: March 8 — 5:44 a.m., 2 degrees above the horizon, March 10—6:15 a.m., 24 degrees; March 11—5:36 a.m., 12 degrees; March 12—4:36 a.m., 2 degrees.
